DESCRIPTIVE PRICE-LIST OF
NEW AMERICAN ROSES,

RAISED AND FOR SALE BY
J. COOK, 318 N. CHARLES STREET. Baltimore Md.

SOUVENIR OF WOOTTON—A red Hybrid Tea, raised from seed of Bon Silene, crossed with Louis Van Houtte, with a Hybrid scent; it is a strong stocky grower, every shoot, without almost any exception, produces a flower on long erect stems; its strong, healthy growth combined with the production of flowers, surpasses any in cultivation. It gives its best results if planted in a solid bed in the greenhouse. There the flowers increase in size and beauty with the strength of the plant.

[Extract from the Gardeners' Monthly, January Number, 1888.]

ROSE SOUVENIR OF WOOTTON.—We have specimens of flowers from Mr. John Cook of Baltimore, which we regard as one of the most promising new roses of the day, and which it is proposed to name as above. As seen by a casual observer, in a glass of water, on the table, he would think they were Bon Silene, Papa Gontier, Bennett, or something of that grand red class; of course, the critical rose fancier would know at once he had something different to deal with. As far as we can judge from these flowers, Mr. Cook may feel very proud of his success; it was raised from seed of Bon Silene crossed with Louis Van Houtte; the odor is delightful, sweeter even than La France, and seems a free grower that will be pleased with any ordinary treatment; unlike some of the other good florists' roses, it seems to us it would make as good an out-door rose as one for winter forcing.

P. S.—The name Wootten was given it as a keep-sake of Mr. Childs' Country Seat, where that gentleman entertained the Society of American Florists so handsomely in August, 1886.

ANNIE COOK, is a remarkable strong growing Tea Rose raised from seed of Bon Silene, of a delicate shade of pink, getting almost white under glass in mid-winter. The flowers of these roses are perfectly double, and can be grown to an extra large size. Besides the winter blooming qualities of these two roses, they will make splendid market roses on account of their strong healthy growth, combined with the profusion of flowers.

NEW VIOLET MADAME MILLET, of a distinct rose color, shaded with Lilac. This variety has proved so far perfectly healthy, a strong grower and immense bloomer.
